

Al Mohler: friends, connections and writings

(quotes from numerous articles/sources with links)

In spite of his public criticism of the Catholic Church, Mohler claims in his official biography to have studied at St. Meinrad School of Theology [10] (a few hours drive from the Seminary of which he is President.)

Mission Statement

The mission of Saint Meinrad Seminary and School of Theology is the initial and ongoing formation of priests, permanent deacons, and laity to minister together effectively in the service and evangelization of the Roman Catholic Church and the world.

Realizing the Mission

Realizing this mission requires attention to the distinctive identity and formation of priests, permanent deacons, and laity as well as the development of professional skills to assist them in working together for effective ministry and evangelization in the Church and the world.

Mary Mohler (founder and director of Seminary Wives Institute and wife of The Southern Baptist Seminary, Al Mohler), with Kristie Anyabwile, wife of Thabiti Anyabwile who is pastor of First Baptist Church in Grand Cayman, with Lauren Chandler, wife of Matt Chandler at The Village Church in Dallas, TX, and Jani Ortlund, wife of Dr. Ray Ortlund, pastor of Immanuel Church in Nashville, TN.

They talked in a panel discussion about expectations and priorities and then in the second hour talked about focus on the family.

A leader at the Village Church for 12 years, Chandler is entrancing if demanding to hang with. "His intensity is one of the first things you notice," says Albert Mohler, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. "Just sharing a meal with him—the man's intense. He's confident but he's ready to learn." "I can be overbearing at times," says Chandler, a trait he says he wants to tamp.

And just as Mohler became president of the Southern Baptist Convention's (SBC) flagship seminary at the young age of 33, Chandler has now become the president of the Acts 29 Network. The 16-year-old "gospel-centered" band of churches aims to write the next chapter of the missions described in the Book of Acts' 28 chapters. Seattle pastor Mark Driscoll cofounded the network with late Presbyterian pastor David Nicholas in 1998. In March 2012, during a meeting with board members present, Driscoll tapped Chandler to succeed him, shifting the offices to Dallas. (Driscoll remained on the board for a time, but is no longer listed as a member of Acts 29 leadership.)

My friend, Mark Dever, once again permitted me to take part in the 9Marks panel. It was a joy to serve with Albert Mohler and Danny Akin.

Along with being elected to serve as the 2018 Pastors' Conference president, I was also elected as a new trustee of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, where R. Albert Mohler is President. Glad and grateful to serve!

In 1995 Andy Davis began pursuing his Ph.D. at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. While there, he attended Highview Baptist Church (which happens to be the church Al Mohler attends). Andy earned his Ph.D. in Church History in 1998, finishing in just 3-1/2 years. His dissertation was on Calvin's Eschatology. Andy stated during the 9Marks interview that he learned a lot from John Calvin about how to study the Bible.

Beginning at the 15 minute mark, Andy Davis reveals that it was Mark Dever who recommended him to the pastor search committee at First Baptist Church Durham. Interestingly, the pastor search committee was initially interested in Mark Dever coming to pastor the church (after having been at Capitol Hill Baptist Church for four years).

I was proud to represent Concerned Women for America (CWA) at the 2014 National Conference of the Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission, titled, "The Gospel, Homosexuality and the Future of Marriage." I think you will agree that few topics are more relevant to the culture in which God has called us to live.

American culture is in desperate need of Christian leadership in every area, but especially in the area of sexuality where we have seen the absolute degradation and desecration of Biblical morality.

I am writing to you as I reflect on the culmination of the first day of discussions at the conference. And today, no one was better than Dr. Albert Mohler, president of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, in setting the urgent tone of the issue.

Les does a good job interviewing Dr. Mohler and I think his answers are worthy of your consideration. I'll be honest that although I love Dr. Mohler's theology and appreciate to a great degree what he has done as President of Southern, I am struggling with his candidacy for President simply because I am typically opposed to entity heads serving as convention President. None-the-less, he is running and these answers offer insight into his thought process.

"It is not amnesty," stated Resolutions Committee Chairman Paul Jimenez. "There is no reference to sanctuaries here."

Al Mohler, president of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, similarly tweeted his concern about removing the passage in question.

"Southern Baptists are at a crucial decision point," he wrote. "The immigration crisis demands a Gospel response before any political response."

Although the original language supported by Moore and Mohler remained in the resolution – albeit with anti-amnesty language inserted – the tone of the debate became heated at times and the critical vote succeeded by only 43 votes.

Scroggins has served as dean of Boyce, the undergraduate institution of The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, since January 2004 and Southern President R. Albert Mohler Jr. said the news is bittersweet.

"This is a sad day for Southern Seminary in that it will bring to a close Dr. Scroggins' outstanding leadership as Dean of Boyce College," he said. "But, in reality, this is in every way reason for our pride in Dr. Scroggins and our excitement to see what God will do through his pastoral leadership of that great congregation."

Scroggins earned both his master of divinity and Ph.D. from Southern and his bachelor's degree from Jacksonville University in Florida. Scroggins vacates a teaching pastor position at Highview Baptist Church in Louisville, where he has served since 1997.

Mohler said though the departure of Scroggins is a loss on both a professional and personal level, the position he is filling is an excellent ministry opportunity.

"At the personal level, I just can't express how much I will miss him," he said. "He is a great friend as well as a cherished colleague. Many others will share this loss."

THE MAN FROM ISSACHAR

An Address Delivered in the City of Washington, D.C. upon the Inauguration of Russell D. Moore as President of the Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention on Tuesday, September 10, 2013 at Capitol Hill Baptist Church by R. Albert Mohler, Jr., President of The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary

Excerpts:

“First, I point to the character and giftedness of this man. I can remember the very first conversation I had with Russell Moore. In that first meeting, I caught a glimpse of his intelligence, his conviction, and his ambitions. I knew then that he was out to change the world, but that his first loyalty and constant horizon is not this world, but the world that is already but not yet—in other words, not the kingdoms of this world but the Kingdom of our God and of His Christ.

His intellect is first rate, as is his scholarship. He came as a Doctor of Philosophy student and transformed his doctoral dissertation into a manifesto for kingdom ministry and cultural engagement. His intelligence is energetic and his wit always on hand. To talk with Russ is to enter into a world of ideas undergirded by conviction and footnoted with readings.”

“He is one of the most natural conversationalists I have ever encountered. He is like the Victorians who could enter any room and join the conversation and immediately add to it. He is a voracious reader who is a walking bibliography and a library on legs. He comes alive when a book or an idea or a problem or a personality comes to attention.”

“Russell Moore is a Baptist by conviction and a Southern Baptist by passion. He is a member of the tribe who transcends tribalism. He is not a Baptist by accident. His commitment to the free church in a free state and to the elegant simplicity of Baptist ecclesiology is clear. He is a conversionist and a churchman. He is deeply committed to the Gospel of Jesus Christ and to the Great Commission. He knows the Southern Baptist Convention and he loves Southern Baptists with an eyes-open love. Thus, he can lead Southern Baptists. The late Carlyle Marney once said of Southern Baptists, “We may not be much but we are many.” Russ Moore is representative of a generation of leaders needed to make much of many.

He is, as no less than Augustine described the Christian teacher, one who is passionately committed to truth because he stakes his life on this truth and is himself transformed by this truth. He is, as our common mentor Carl F. H. Henry would define, a Christian thinker who is unreservedly committed to the totality of the comprehensive truth claim of the Christian world and life view.”

“So we know the man, but what of the times? Twenty-five years ago, Carl Henry warned:

Our generation is lost to the truth of God, to the reality of divine revelation, to the content of God’s will, to the power of his redemption, and to the authority of His Word. For this loss it is paying dearly in a swift relapse to paganism.

The savages are stirring again; you can hear them rumbling and rustling in the tempo of our times.^[1]

The last quarter century since Henry’s statement of our crisis has brought no reversal of the trends he observed. To the contrary, the formerly Christian West is, in many sectors, so thoroughly secularized that it now has no consciousness of even being so. The Christian truth claim was reduced to a Christian memory, and now even that memory is gone.”

“But the real crisis is not in the world, but in the church. More than sixty years ago, Carl Henry (whose 100th birthday we would mark this year), reminded the evangelicals of that day that the failure was ours before it was a failure in the world.

It was the failure of Fundamentalism to work out a positive message within its own framework, and its tendency instead to take further refuge in a despairing view of world history, that cut off the pertinence of evangelicalism to the modern global crisis. The really creative thought, even if done in a non-redemptive context, was now being done by non-evangelical spokesmen.^[2]

Through this analysis of the problem, what Henry called The Uneasy Conscience of Modern Fundamentalism, he called evangelicals to a new mode of cultural and intellectual engagement.

“There is a rising tide of reaction in Fundamentalism today—a reaction born of uneasy conscience and determined no longer to becloud the challenge of the Gospel in modern times,” Henry wrote. “It is a reaction to which the best minds of evangelicalism are bending their effort these days, convinced that no synthesis is more relevant than modern frustration and biblical redemptionism.”^[3]

In other words, he saw a generation coming, and he saw the likes of Russell Moore on the horizon. We dare not underestimate the challenges before us. We are living in a cut-flower civilization. There is a new paganism growing rapidly around us. There are threats to human life and human flourishing at every hand. We do see the ramparts of the family and the faith being both scaled and taken down. Religious liberty is under direct threat and we find ourselves in a moment of great civilizational peril.”

Influence of Carl F. H. Henry and Billy Graham on Al Mohler:

"For much of Mohler's student career at Southern, he identified with the denomination's moderates. As an adolescent in south Florida he had been impressed with the ideas and ministries of such evangelical leaders as Carl F. H. Henry, Francis Schaeffer, and D. James Kennedy. While completing his dissertation at Southern Seminary on the thought of Karl Barth and Carl Henry, his conservatism deepened."

Excerpt from Southern Baptist Seminary 1859-2009 by Gregory A. Wills

Russell Moore also did his 2002 doctoral dissertation, "Kingdom Theology and the American Evangelical Consensus: Emerging Implications for Sociopolitical Engagement" seeks to reapply Henry's agenda to the context of contemporary evangelical thought.

Carl F. H. Henry was involved in the start-up of Fuller Theological Seminary with his friend Harold Ockenga, of Christianity Today with Billy Graham and Carl was also the first editor of it, of the Evangelical Theological Society, and of the National Association of Evangelicals. Billy Graham was the primary speaker for more than fifteen years of the National Prayer Breakfast of the largest network of religious politicians in the world. Billy was also founder of the Lausanne Council in 1966 in Berlin's World Congress on Evangelism and the International Congress on World Evangelization in 1974. He was also the spiritual leader involved in helping the public to not want to further investigate into 9/11, the Oklahoma City Bombing, and Hurricane Katrina crimes.

Sitting in a golf cart, evangelist Billy Graham addresses the news media June 19 on the field of Papa John's Cardinal Stadium. Graham was in town for the Greater Louisville Billy Graham Crusade June 21-24. R. R. Albert Mohler Jr., president of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and chairman of the Greater Louisville Crusade's executive committee, said he is thankful that Graham has come to Louisville again.

"There has been a group of persons who for many years have been praying together that the Lord will bring Dr. Graham here for a major crusade," Mohler said. "The seeds of this were really sown in 1956. Rare is the city that has the opportunity to host a Billy Graham crusade. Far rarer is the city that is able to have Dr. Graham come twice."

We have not found a primary source to verify John MacArthur present in 1986, but he was there in 1988 – if anyone finds verification, let us know:

Consider, for example, John MacArthur – probably the most conservative of the three names mentioned and noted for his expository preaching. In 2007, he was a speaker at Moody Bible Institute's Founder's Week! Moody Bible Institute at one time stood opposed to the ecumenism of men like Billy Graham, refusing to participate in Graham's crusades when they came to the Chicago area. However, by 1986 this position was forsaken as they welcomed Billy as a Founder's Week speaker, along with John MacArthur. Moody's leadership has followed the trend of Evangelicals toward a more open and tolerant attitude to those who are Liberal (a kind word for being either apostate or pagan). They have also embraced the spread of New Evangelicalism (modifying the school's curriculum and implementing degree programs to meet the increasing educational demands), and have continued to adopt modern heresies, so that today they promote the latest forms of Emergent spirituality. Moody, like other formerly solid Christian institutions, has followed the pattern away from Fundamentalism into apostasy. However, despite this spiritually downward spiral, John MacArthur continues to join them for Founder's Week, thereby aligning himself not only with Moody Bible Institute's ecumenical position, but also with those faltering Evangelicals who join him on the conference platform.

Conservative Spotlight: Townhall.com

The transformation began in December when Heritage's board of trustees approved the spinoff upon the recommendation of its president, Ed Feulner. It was Feulner who took a lead role in Townhall's growth over the past 10 years when "Town Hall" was only a private online bulletin board run by National Review and Heritage. The domain Townhall.com has existed since 1995. National Review eventually sold its share to Heritage, which successfully marketed the website with commentaries, news, online chats and daily e-mails.

Bond, 35, a former chief of staff to Feulner, is the new face behind Townhall. He spent nearly four years working with Feulner, and before that was a health care sales representative for Pfizer. He has also worked in government, serving as the chief of staff for Republican Oklahoma Corporate Commissioner Denise Bode and a legislative assistant for former Sen. Don Nickles (R.-Okla.).

Al Mohler's Southern Baptist Seminary promotes understanding of Islam as a primary course and built a center for Christian understanding of Islam:

Jenkins Center Panel Discussion on the Christian Understanding of Islam

The Jenkins Center for the Christian Understanding of Islam exists to bring a front-line exposure to Islam right into the heart of the seminary's academic...

<http://www.albertmohler.com/2014/09/26/jenkins-lecture-panel-discussion/>

(excerpts from an introduction to the Jenkins Center)

Randy Stinson, senior vice president for academic administration and provost, explained that a group of fellows who are "experts in the area of Islam" will lead the Jenkins Center through research, seminars and writing.

"Not only will they be able to help believers understand various global events from a Christian perspective, they will be producing articles, books and other resources for the church," Stinson said. "They will also host conferences, roundtable discussions and summits with Islamic scholars from around the world.

The center opens with four fellows, two of whom cannot be announced for security reasons related to their work. The other two, J.D. Greear and Michael Youssef, are scholars who live and minister in the United States.

Greear, who is lead pastor of The Summit Church in Durham, N.C., studied Islamic theology during his doctoral work at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and served as a missionary among Muslims prior to pastoring in the United States.

The Egyptian-born Youssef is an author, founding rector of the Church of the Apostles in Atlanta, Ga., and founder and president of Leading The Way, a worldwide media ministry. Originally, the seminary planned for Youssef to present the inaugural Jenkins Center lecture in conjunction with the center's launch. However, inclement weather prohibited his traveling to Louisville. Youssef will give the inaugural lecture at a later date.

In place of Youssef, Mohler gave an address during chapel, "Monotheism Is Not Enough." Speaking from James 2:19, he pushed back against the idea of three "Abrahamic religions" — Judaism, Christianity and Islam — arguing that authentic Abrahamic faith leads to Jesus Christ.

Mohler described "two great rival systems of belief," arguing that Islam represents the "main rival" to Christianity around the world.

"In the west, that main system of belief is modern secularism — which is a complete worldview system. But almost everywhere else in the world, Islam is the main rival in terms of the belief systems that take a hold of humanity," he said.

Islam also presents challenges related to theology and apologetics, according to Mohler. He stressed again that Christian discussions of Muslim theology must seek to understand Islam in light of the gospel.

Finally, Mohler said that Christians face a challenge of love regarding Islam. Loving Muslims, he said, means understanding and engaging Muslims in both "honest and accurate" and "loving and respectful" ways.

"Jesus ordered us to go into all the world and to find all the world as our neighbor — a neighbor we are to love," he said. "And if we do love, we will seek to understand what they believe and we seek to confront them with the gospel."

Closing, Mohler emphasized the importance of Southern Seminary's new initiatives in developing this Christian understanding of Islam, calling it a "non-negotiable" for future ministers.

The Jenkins are members of Paoli Christian Church in Paoli, Ind., where Bill Jenkins, co-founder and manager of Mainstream Investments and Advisors in New Albany, Ind., is an elder and Connie Jenkins, a graduate of the Women's Ministry Institute at Southern Seminary, is involved in the women's ministry. They have four grown sons: Aaron, Stephen, Chad and Neil.

Southern Seminary's Pastor's Wives Training Seminary

An accompanying Women's Ministry Institute at Southern Seminary prepares women to minister to other women in the local church. Both programs are offered through Southern Seminary's Boyce College and headed up by Mary Mohler, wife of Southern Seminary President Albert Mohler.

Mary Mohler and Dorothy Patterson were the only two women serving on a seven-member committee that drafted a family amendment added to the Baptist Faith & Message in 1998. That article proscribed the proper role for a wife as "to submit herself graciously to the servant leadership of her husband, even as the church willingly submits to the headship of Christ."

General Biography Info about Al Mohler:

Southern Baptist Theological Seminary (Southern Seminary)

Mohler joined the staff of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky in 1983 as Coordinator of Foundation Support. In 1987 he became Director of Capital Funding, a post he held until 1989. While still a student he served as assistant to then-President Roy Honeycutt.

In February 1993, Mohler was appointed President of the Seminary by conservatives on that institution's board of trustees, succeeding Roy Honeycutt. The seminary soon saw a wholesale shift towards conservative theology (characterised by Mohler as a move toward "confessional fidelity") and a rapid exodus (both voluntary and compulsory) of more than 60 percent of the faculty. Diana Garland the dean of a unit of the Seminary, the Carver School of Church Social Work, was fired over a conflict with Mohler. The Carver School was eventually dissolved as the new administration judged social work to be out of keeping with biblical doctrine. In 1999, nearly a million dollars of its endowment were returned to the Women's Missionary Union in accordance with the terms of an undisclosed settlement.

One departing faculty member, G. Wade Rowatt, referred to the new regime as "a Baptist version of the Taliban." (Mohler shakes up Southern Baptists)

Other, more conservative Baptist leaders were elated: Paige Patterson, another Southern Baptist Convention seminary president, said Mohler's leadership "will mean that they recover their evangelical emphasis there" and that Mohler's Presidency meant that "the worst of the problems" were over: "Al Mohler has the brains of Erasmus and the courage of Luther."

As noted last week, Southern Baptist Seminary's President Rev. Albert Mohler recently told a reporter that evangelicals have "lied about the nature of homosexuality" and reinforced his sentiments at the recent Southern Baptist Convention conference. I think it is going to take awhile for Rev. Al Mohler's words about evangelicals and homosexuality to sink in – even for those who say they agree with him.

In this Baptist Press article, Exodus International President, Alan Chambers, came to Rev. Mohler's defense against critics who say Mohler is going soft on gays, saying (in italics)

"I grew up in a Southern Baptist church, and I am eternally grateful for what I learned there — the truth that I learned and the biblical foundation that I have," Chambers said. "But there was no way that I was ever going to tell anybody in my church growing up that I struggled with these things. I am very thankful to say that that has changed [in that church] But we've still all got to do better."

R. Albert Mohler Jr., president of The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and president of the Council of Seminary Presidents, said in a statement to Baptist Press, "Randy Williams comes with a unique background, having experience as a pastor and as an administrator. He brings a solid educational background and the ability to teach and give tremendous leadership to Seminary Extension for the generation ahead."

R. Albert Mohler Jr. serves as president of The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. In 2000, Dr. Mohler served on a panel that made recommendations to the SBC for revisions to the Baptist Faith and Message, the statement of faith most widely held among Southern Baptists. He currently serves as chairman of the Southern Baptist Convention's Council of Seminary Presidents.

Excerpts from Nate Sparks article about whether C. J. Mahaney knew about abuse within Sovereign Grace Ministries and how Al Mohler is trying to give Mahaney a clean slate of approval:

Willful Ignorance

"No good tree bears bad fruit, nor does a bad tree bear good fruit. Each tree is recognized by its own fruit. People do not pick figs from thorn bushes, or grapes from briers. A good man brings good things out of the good stored up in his heart, and an evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in his heart. For the mouth speaks what the heart is full of.

– Luke 6:43-45 (NIV)

Yesterday (October 9, 2016), Albert Mohler published an op ed piece in The Washington Post. In this post, Mohler declared unequivocally that any presidential candidate, and indeed any person at all, who would brag about grabbing women by the genitals against their will is a sex predator. As a result, Mohler argues that no evangelical can, in good conscience, defend such a candidate. Thus, as he sees it, support for a sex predator, if left unchecked, will mark the downfall of Evangelical Christianity. As I read this article, I found my response to be a mixture of agreement and amazement. That is, while I agree with Mohler in principle – he is absolutely right that the tapes contain depictions of sexually predatory behavior and voting for such a man violates the Christian ethic – I am struck by the depths of Al Mohler's hypocrisy.

Defending Mahaney

On May 23, 2013, Albert Mohler, along with Ligon Duncan and Mark Dever, issued a statement on behalf of Together for the Gospel. In this statement, Mohler declared that, while he cannot pass judgment on accusations against the other individuals named in the SGM Lawsuit, CJ Mahaney is entirely innocent of all the accusations against him.

However, a quick examination of the facts presented in the Second Amended Complaint of the SGM Lawsuit will reveal just how self-defeating this statement is."

"For 23 years, Grant Layman, Gary Ricucci, and CJ Mahaney knew that a father was preying sexually upon his 9 young children. However, rather than report these incidents to law enforcement, the leaders of Covenant Life Church and Sovereign Grace Ministries carried out a conspiracy to silence these children's stories.

The only way Albert Mohler can declare CJ Mahaney innocent – and thus tacitly proclaim all leaders implicated in the SGM lawsuit innocent as well – is to remain willfully ignorant of these incidents. He does not continue to defend Mahaney because he has practiced careful discernment; he has not, through careful examination, determined the evidence does not hold up. Instead, Mohler has chosen to protect his friend rather than hear the voices of the victims of SGM child sex abuse. And in doing so, Mohler has betrayed precisely the ethical admonitions he has sought to enforce upon evangelicals supporting Trump."

After two years of low profile amid questions about his handling of allegations of child sexual abuse, C.J. Mahaney is back on the program for the 2016 Together for the Gospel confab in Louisville, Ky.

Al Mohler's relationships with Focus on the Family and Family Research Council:

Jim Daly says Mohler is a "close advisor and friend":

Jim Daly, president of Focus on the Family, said, "Dr. Mohler had a firm grasp of the power of Twitter and Facebook way back in the days when most of us still saw them as mysterious emerging technologies."

Mohler serves on the board of directors of Focus, an international radio and publishing ministry founded by psychologist James Dobson that assists families. Daly counts Mohler as a "close advisor and friend as we navigated the waters of leadership transition."

For the Record: My Address at 'Justice Sunday' by Al Mohler

Many thanks to RadioBlogger [an invaluable site you should bookmark quickly], who posted a transcript of my address at 'Justice Sunday.' I stand by every word. Here it is:

I am greatly thrilled to be here tonight with Tony Perkins, and Dr. James Dobson, and so many others. Because I believe that tonight is the start of something really important. I think this is about the people of God. Evangelical Christians beginning to understand what our responsibility really is. Now this is a little unusual for our Church on a Sunday night. We have a lot of other Churches gathering with us, and this isn't what we do most Sunday nights. Why? It is because this is a Gospel Church. This is a Church that is established upon the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ. Our main message is salvation through grace alone. By faith alone. Through Christ alone. The main message we want to communicate is that we want to see all persons come to know the Lord Jesus Christ as Savior. We want to communicate to all that we are not calling for persons merely to be moral. We want them to be believers in the Lord Jesus Christ, because we don't just need instruction, we need salvation. Now because of that, something has to explain why we would take this time on a Sunday night to talk about something like the federal judiciary.

Al Mohler was on the board of Family Research Council – a think-tank in Washington D.C.:

But FRC board member Albert Mohler, the president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, has made several public anti-Catholic statements. During a March 22, 2000, appearance on CNN's Larry King Live, for example, Mohler asserted, "As an evangelical, I believe the Roman church is a false church and it teaches a false gospel. I believe the pope himself holds a false and unbiblical office."

Here's what FRC board member Albert Mohler, the president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, wrote: Nevertheless, the office he holds is an unbiblical institution based in a monarchical ministry that is incompatible with the New Testament's vision of the church. Furthermore, he claims also to be a head of state — a situation that adds untold layers of additional confusion. The problem of the papacy is much larger than this short summary can address...

Family Research Council (2002) is on the list of U.N. ECOSOC NGO's with Special Consultative Status

<http://undocs.org/E/2016/INF/5>

Excerpts from this article by Bob Johnson that is well worth the read:

"Dr. Mohler is the President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary (this seminary is a member of the Rockefeller-affiliated Assn. of Theological Schools/ATS [ecumenical accrediting agency for seminaries])..."

"Let's now focus on another of Dr. Mohler's associations; an association that has been left out of his website bio. Dr. Mohler is a Founding Fellow of the Research Institute (think tank) of The Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission (ERLC). The ERLC is the public policy arm of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC). Why is this information noteworthy? Because the ERLC is a non-governmental organization (NGO) listed with the UN's Department of Public Information (DPI)."

"It can be seen that Dr. Mohler is a Founding Fellow of the ERLC by going to <http://www.erc.com/> and by clicking on "The Institute" at the top, then clicking on "Research Institute Fellows" near the bottom left of the page. One can see that the ERLC is a UN-NGO on the UNESCO website (www.un.org/ecosoc/). Click on "NGO Participation" and type in ERLC."

"The ERLC of the SBC is a UN-NGO. What does it mean that the ERLC partners with the UN as an NGO? What are the criteria for NGO's to be granted this status? The following are just a few of the criteria taken from UN Resolution 1996/31: "The NGO must support the principles of the Charter of the UN.” “The NGO must have a clear mission statement that is consistent with those principles.” “The NGO must have a satisfactory record of collaboration with the UN prior to association.” “The NGO must promote the initiatives and programmes, disseminate information and mobilize public opinion in support of the UN.” “The NGO must provide the UN with an audited annual financial statement.” And “the NGO must promote knowledge of the principles and activities of the UN.” (“Arrangements for Consultation with Non-Governmental Organizations”) This document makes it clear that no organization can be granted this status by the UN by accident. To be granted this status, an organization must agree with the UN and its one-world agenda.”

“The president of the ERLC and Dr. Mohler’s superior at the ERLC is Dr. Richard Land. Dr. Land is also a Founding Fellow of the Research Institute of the ERLC. Dr. Land was recently appointed to a second term on the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom by President Bush. In 2005, Dr. Land was featured in Time magazine as one of “The 25 Most Influential Evangelicals in America.” “

“According to the article, “Southern Baptist Leaders Claim Ties to Council on Foreign Relations,” by Bob Allen, written 11-30-06, Richard Land is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). 129. “Richard Land, president and CEO of the Southern Baptist Convention Ethics & Religious Liberty Commission, and Rick Warren, a mega-church pastor and author of The Purpose Driven Life, are on record as belonging to the Council on Foreign Relations.” This very disturbing fact, if true, hasn’t prevented John MacArthur from inviting Richard Land’s close associate, Al Mohler, into his church every year. Recall that John Todd stated that all members of the CFR believe that Lucifer is god supreme.”

Other U.N. connections to Al Mohler's friend John MacArthur through Dr. Bob Provost, Timothy George:

About Timothy George Chairman of Baptist World Alliance first:

(excerpts from)

Our Francis, Too

Why we can enthusiastically join arms with the Catholic leader.

TIMOTHY GEORGE | JUNE 4, 2013

Papa Francesco! In the damp darkness of St. Peter's Square, the crowds chanted his name when Jorge Mario Bergoglio, the archbishop of Buenos Aires, was named the new pope. Seldom has a religious leader been embraced so warmly across the Christian world, including by many evangelicals. Seldom has hope risen so high so quickly. And the hope has arisen for good reason.

Since the Reformation, many of the names chosen by popes—Pius, Clement, Leo, Urban, even Benedict—sound quaint to non-Catholic ears. But the humble Francis of Assisi is a saint for everyone. Francis challenged the church of his day—not by conforming to the standards of the world but by returning to the pattern of Jesus, the one who did not seek status but humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even death on the cross (Phil. 2:5–11).

Early on, in a radical act of dispossession, Francis broke decisively with his former life as a soldier and playboy. He stripped off his clothes and ran out of the bishop's palace stark naked, saying, "I will no longer be called the son of Pietro Bernardone. From now on I shall say simply, 'Our Father, who art in heaven.' "

Prominent Baptist layman memorialized

Created: Thursday, 17 May 2012 14:59

Christians need to avoid the extremes of utopianism and cynicism if they are to live in a world marked by ambiguity, said Timothy George, founding dean and professor of Beeson Divinity School in Birmingham, Alabama, in the United States.

George delivered the homily at the memorial service for Charles "Chuck" Colson on May 16. Colson, founder of Prison Fellowship International and a member of First Baptist Church in Naples, Florida, died on April 21 from complications resulting from a brain hemorrhage.

George, who is chair of the Baptist World Alliance (BWA) Commission on Doctrine and Church Unity, told the congregation that believers have the assurance of God's promise in a world characterized by both light and darkness. He indicated that persons such as Colson, John Stott, Martin Luther King, and Billy Graham provide witness of God's rich provision. These persons, he said, are signposts along the road of God's providential care on life's pilgrimage. BWA General Secretary Neville Callam, who attended the memorial service at the Washington National Cathedral in Washington, DC, said "it was a fitting tribute to one of the many outstanding Baptist laypersons whose witness to Christ's transforming power continues to be a wonderful source of inspiration."

BWA attends Vatican meeting

Created: Wednesday, 03 October 2012 09:43

Timothy George, dean and professor of divinity, history and doctrine at Beeson Divinity School in the state of Alabama in the United States, is representing the Baptist World Alliance® (BWA) in Rome at the 13th Ordinary General Assembly of the Synod of Bishops of the Catholic Church.

George accepted the invitation of BWA General Secretary Neville Callam to attend the Vatican meetings which run from October 7-18. The theme, The New Evangelization for the Transmission of the Christian Faith, will be guided by a working document that was issued on June 19.

"The BWA is pleased that eminent Baptist theologian, Dr. Timothy George, has agreed to represent the worldwide Baptist family at the Synod," Callam said. "In him, we have an erudite thinker and a true ambassador for the worldwide Baptist family."

George said that "in a world where the Christian faith is increasingly under assault, this theme is of urgent concern for all believers in Jesus Christ." He noted that October 11 will also mark the 50th anniversary of the Second Vatican Council, "an event of great historic importance for Christian unity." The noted Baptists theologian asked for "the prayers of all Baptist people for me and others as we prepare for this

John then invited Pastor Dukhonchenko and his assistant, Pastor Grigory Komendant, to come to Los Angeles for a visit. We spent a day in the college board room comparing our doctrinal distinctives. After several hours of discussion, Pastor Dukhonchenko joyfully declared, "Finally we have found someone outside of the Soviet Union who believes as we do." Later, The Master's College granted the Doctor of Divinity to Pastor Grigory Komendant and The Master's Seminary granted its first honorary degree, the Doctor of Divinity, to Pastor Yakov Dukhonchenko. Over the years D.D.s have also been granted to a former president of the UECB of Russia, Piotr Konovalchik; to the founding president of Irpin Biblical Seminary, Alexei Brinza; and to the current president of the UECB of Belarus, Viktor Krutko. The Union of Evangelical Christians-Baptists continued to invite Dr. MacArthur for a total of ten pastors' conferences in Kiev, Ukraine; Minsk, Belarus; Moscow and Voronezh, Russia; Almaty, Kazakhstan, and Bucharest, Romania. Partnership with the Slavic Gospel Association helped make possible both the conferences and a continuing stream of Russian versions of John's publications, which has grown to more than 300,000 copies. Since the Lord granted the evangelicals of the USSR freedom to worship in 1989, Dr. John MacArthur has been their principal theological influence. Evangelical pastors, church planters, and seminary students A Humble Brother Whom God Has Exalted 135 throughout the nations of the former Soviet Union are using John's Study Bible, commentaries, and other books. Graduates of The Master's Seminary, and their disciples, have been training pastors at Irpin Biblical Seminary, Novosibirsk Biblical Theological Seminary, Samara Theological Seminary, Odessa Theological Seminary, Minsk Theological Seminary, Almaty Bible Institute, Baku Bible Institute, Dushanbe Bible Institute, International Bible Institute of Ukraine, and in the Strategic Bible Institutes and Antioch Initiative programs of SGA. Underlying all of this tremendous progress of the gospel is Dr. MacArthur's reputation as a humble servant of Christ, who has a special place in his heart for those who have suffered for their faith and remained true to the Lord.....he is their beloved brother. John is a humble servant of the most high God, and I am blessed to call him my brother and my friend.

Writing at 6:41 A.M. from a college dormitory at Moody Bible College. This is my first full-fledged extended speaking gig, as Kevin DeYoung and I are speaking twice a day in an auditorium here on campus, about Why We're Not Emergent (by Two Guys Who Should Be).

But on to the excellent part, and the part that makes me feel so unbelievably blessed to be here. I have had the privilege of hearing Keith and Kristyn Getty lead worship, which constitutes the first time; in all honesty, I've ever been excited about anyone leading worship. I'm just not the kind of guy to get really cranked up over worship music. The real treat though, has been hearing Albert Mohler and Alistair Begg preach the gospel and, specifically, preach to pastors about the importance of expository (verse by verse) preaching in a culture that doesn't seem to want to have anything to do with being taught propositional truths.

On January 23, 2003, Mohler spoke to attendees at a Campus Crusade for Christ meeting held at Downing University Center Theater at Western Kentucky University. On October 31, 2004, Mohler spoke at the First Baptist Church of Woodstock, Georgia on the subject "Deciphering the Da Vinci Code." On November 5-6, 2004, Mohler spoke at Covenant Life Church in Gaithersburg, Maryland, giving presentations entitled "Being Men and Raising Men," and "Embracing God's Design for Marriage."
